GREAT BATTLE IN PROGRESS NEAR WARSAW

Allies In Flanders Have Put the German Armies Clearly On the Defense

Positions of the Contending Forces Have Been Reversed and from Ypres to the Sea, Official Reports Suggest, the Offensive Movement of The French British and Belgians Is Continually Going Forward but the Progress Is Very Slow

BRITISH NAVAL FLOTILLA IS AIDING THE ATTACK

Especially In the Vicinity of Nieuport—Wedges Driven Into the Teuton Lines at Various Points, and the Forcing of Invaders From Belgian Soil Seems to Be a Definite Object—Naval Raid On English Coast Has Had the Effect of Stimulating Enlistment In the Army's Ranks.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

London, Dec. 17.—The German naval raid on the east coast of England has had the effect of stimulating recruiting in the British Isles. The increase in the number of men joining the colors today is attributed almost solely to this cause.

The raid is still being widely discussed. Other results from it are preparations at coast points for the protection of the civilian population in case of further German attacks, and the organization in London of a national guard for local defense.

In the western arena of the war, especially in Flanders, the position of the contending armies would appear today to have been clearly reversed. All the recent communications, issued by the allies and the Germans, refer to the allied offensive from Ypres to the sea. Consequently the Germans are on the defensive. The British squadron is still standing off the coast and has added the attack in the vicinity of Nieuport, but nowhere has marked progress been noted. It may be said, nevertheless, that the attempt of the allies to push the Germans out of Belgium has definitely begun and that the results so far recorded in Flanders have converted the German line into a series of tenaciously held positions rather than a straight front; at many points, allied wedges have been driven in.

Russia claims to have for the present to have checked the advance of the Austrians. West of Warsaw, however, the Germans continue their advance.

The German press, commenting on the situation in the west has expressed the opinion that operations of importance are impending in Alsace, where it is said, French reinforcements are being brought up. A new French attack from the direction of Toul also is expected in Berlin. It is added that the German guns did considerable damage to the French position in the Vosges, to the south of St. Die.

The increase in recruiting resulting from the bombardment of east coast towns is particularly marked in London, where the rush of applicants resembles in many respects the scenes witnessed at the outbreak of the war.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Berlin, Dec. 17.—One of the greatest victories of the war is claimed today by Germany.

The Berlin official statement contains these words:

"The Russian offensive against Silesia and Posen has completely broken down. In the whole of Poland the enemy was forced to retreat after fierce and stubborn frontal battles and is being pursued everywhere."

A semi-official statement speaks confidently of the situation on the east and says that the Austrians appear to have achieved their first actual successes against the Russians in the last few days, in western Galicia. It further admits that the German flanking movements threaten the Russian lines of communication and that it has been necessary for the Russians to draw back their lines in sections, but it gives no intimation of such reverses as are reported from Berlin.

German Wedge Has Advanced

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Warsaw, via London, Dec. 17.—A great battle is in progress at Sochaczew, 30 miles west of Warsaw.

The German wedge which is proceeding in a southwesterly direction from Ilow has managed, after heavy fighting in which serious losses are reported to have been inflicted to establish itself a quarter of a mile west of Sochaczew. The Polish campaign now centers at that point.

Two Million Dollar Fire Loss In Pottsville, Pa., Where An Entire Block Is Destroyed

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Pottsville, Pa., Dec. 17.—Fire in the business section of Pottsville early today wiped out property valued at nearly two million dollars. An entire block of business buildings which were stocked with holiday goods was destroyed. It was the worst fire in Pottsville's history.

The area burned is bounded by Centre, Second, Norwocian and Mabanton streets. Twenty stores, the Pennsylvania National Bank and the Academy of Music, one of Pottsville's leading play houses were among the buildings destroyed.

The postoffice caught fire but was not badly damaged. The fire started in the rear of the Woolworth store and spread on the one side to the Britton-Hoffman furniture store and on the other to the city department store, owned by the New York and Cleveland syndicate.

The upper floors of the department store were used as offices. The flames communicated with stores and other buildings.

Inability to secure a sufficient water supply in the early stages of the fire is given as a cause for the rapid spread of the flames.

The electric power was shut off because of the danger of broken wires and the city is without electric light and power.

Street car service is also suspended. The Pennsylvania Bank building was occupied by lawyers and others. Many valuables were locked in a fire-proof vault and believed to be undamaged.

The Union Safe Deposit building nearby, was slightly damaged but the bank opened for business while the fire was burning itself out.

Much of the loss is not covered by insurance, especially that on the large stocks of holiday goods laid in by the stores.

Servians Have Retaken Belgrade, Their Capital, After Bitter Fight.

The Servians have again taken their capital, Belgrade, after a very hard fight in the mountains in the western part of their country, 70 miles southwest of the capital, and about that distance east of Tarejevo, the scene of the assassination of the Crown Prince Franz Ferdinand of Austria, which was the pretext for the great war.

The Servians marched back into the capital December 15, and an official announcement was made. Now the Austrians hold only a small territory in the country about Shabatz, just west of Belgrade. So far as can be learned from the meagre dispatches, a terrific battle took place in the mountains southwest of the capital and many Austrians were killed and many were taken prisoners. The Austrians have experienced that the defeat was due to larger forces of the Servians. Austrian soldiers have, at the demand of the Kaiser, been taken from the Serbian fight to hold back the Russians.

This is the Servian government's announcement of the re-entry into Belgrade.

The enemy has fled across the Danube and Save rivers in great disorder and has evacuated Belgrade. All Servian territory is now freed of the enemy, except Shabatz and Loznica, whose deliverance is imminent.

"The triumphant entry of the Servian troops into Belgrade was marked by scenes of indescribable enthusiasm. King Peter has received messages of congratulations from all of his allies."

Austria now officially admits a retirement of its big army in Serbia, and the inference is that Austrian armies have suffered a crushing defeat. The Vienna official statement attributes this to the "superior forces" of the tiny Slav state and announces frankly an extended retirement and great losses.

Four Steamers Sunk By Mines; Others Destroyed By Hostile Ships

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

South Shields, Eng., Dec. 17.—

Via London—Three steamers, one believed to be a passenger ship, were sunk by mines in the north sea off Flamborough Head last night.

Only one of these three vessels has so far been identified. This is the steamer Elterwater. Twelve of her crew were saved, but seven lost their lives. The casualties on the other ships have not yet been determined, but it is reported that the crew and passengers of the passenger vessels were seen taking to their boats.

The admiralty has announced that all traffic between Flamborough

Head and Newcastle has been stopped indefinitely.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) South Shields, Eng., Dec. 17.—Via London—The steamer Princess Olga bound for Aberdeen, Scotland, struck a mine off here last night and went down. The crew of 18 men landed in their own boats.

The British steamer Princess Olga was a coaster of 438 tons and 186 feet long and was built in 1901.

The Elterwater also was a small coaster, 743 tons, 255 feet long and was built in 1907.

Bandit Shoots Officer, Is Himself Wounded Before Being Finally Taken

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Cincinnati, Dec. 17.—After a pistol duel with three policemen, one of whom he wounded, the automobile bandit was captured later, but not until one of the policemen's bullets had found its mark in the desperado's body. Both the policeman and the bandit were removed to a hospital, but the physicians in attendance stated that they were unable to say at this time how serious the wounds might be.

Three policemen called at his room and upon opening the door, were received with a shower of shots. Policeman Knaul fell wounded and the bandit, jumping past the other two officers, fled to the street, reentered his automobile, which was standing in front of the house and fled. His flight proved unlucky for him, inasmuch as he crashed into a pole rounding the first corner and wrecked the automobile. He extricated himself from the wreckage and started to run, but the officers by that time were close to him and after an exchange of shots, the bandit fell. Following an examination the physicians at the hospital said probably both Policeman Knaul and the bandit would die. Both were shot four times.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Cincinnati, Dec. 17.—An unidentified automobile bandit entered the West End branch of the Provident Savings Bank and Trust company, at Eighth and Elm avenues, in the heart of the city, and fired two shots at the cashier, Edward Hughes, who then fled. The bandit, who was wearing a dark coat and a hat, was seen by the cashier, who then fled. The bandit, who was wearing a dark coat and a hat, was seen by the cashier, who then fled. The bandit, who was wearing a dark coat and a hat, was seen by the cashier, who then fled.

The robber, entering the bank about an hour after it opened, climbed an outer screen into the office and with a warning fired two shots at the cashier, Edward Hughes. He then seized $2,000 in currency, lying on the cashier's desk, rushed to a table nearby where $6,000 more was stacked, rifled this into his pockets and slowly backed to the door. He then jumped into a machine that had been placed in front of the bank and driving the car himself, sped away. Hughes, in the meantime, had obtained his own revolver and fired at the retreating machine. None of the shots, either of the bandit or Hughes apparently took effect. The police responding to the call in automobile, soon picked up track of the bandit's machine and followed it through almost every street in the West End section.

Two hours after the robbery the Liberty Banking and Savings company at Liberty and Freeman avenues, two blocks from the scene of the Provident bank, was entered by a man, who is supposed to be the same automobile bandit, and another bundle of money, value not known, was obtained. George Winters, cashier of the Liberty bank, was shot by the bandit, and probably seriously injured. The bandit again escaped in an automobile, driven by himself.

Officials of the Liberty Banking and Savings company, at Liberty and Freeman avenues, the second bank was robbed, believe that the amount obtained from them will run into thousands when a check-up is made.

Absolutely Unexpected, Three Big German Warships Loomed Out of the Fog So Close to the Cliffs That Their Guns Could Not Be Trained On the Wireless Station but Big Hotel and City Hall At Scarborough Offered Shining Marks for Gunners

SAD SEARCH FOR VICTIMS WHEN THE SHIPS DREW OFF

Was Accompanied By Pitiable Scenes, and the Hospitals Were Crowded With Anxious Relatives Awaiting the Verdict of Surgeons Who Were Caring for the Wounded, Which Included Women and Children—Some Unexploded Shells Were Found In Streets, Many Found Target In Hospital.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

London, Dec. 17.—The crippling of telephone and telegraph wires by the bombardment yesterday of three ports on the east coast of England by the German cruisers, together with the precautions thrown about these towns by the police and the military authorities made it impossible even today, more than 24 hours after the shelling of Scarborough, the Hartlepool and Whitby, to obtain more than an approximate estimate of the civilian dead and wounded.

According to an official statement given out today, a total of 53 persons met their death in the Hartlepool, while 115 were wounded. At Scarborough, 17 dead and 30 wounded, was the toll. Both official and unofficial estimates place the Whitby casualties as two dead and two wounded. Of the Hartlepool casualties, seven of the dead were soldiers, while of the wounded, 14 men belonged to the military. The maximum of wounded is close on to 150 persons. This does not include the slightly wounded civilians, who bandaged their own hurts and left town on the first trains.

"Bristling with wrath and resentment this attack on unfortified towns, England is astir today as never before since war was declared. Another raid is confidently expected, and the entire machinery of home defense has been put into motion. On the east and the southeast coast of England emergency committees are at work, while in London plans to organize a national guard of men, too old for military service, are under way. Although to the British mind a raid on London seems remote, yesterday's episode drove home the realities of war as nothing else could. Arrangements have been made at Deal and Dover to expedite the removal of the civilian population in case of an attack. These measures are preliminary to forestall any panic or congestion on the railroads and thoroughfares which might impede military movements.

Through wireless telegraphy Berlin promptly heard of the outcome of this visit of German cruisers to the English coast, and this morning a wireless message from the German capital, picked up here, repeated details of the attack as printed by British newspapers yesterday. Nothing has been added from German official sources.

Steaming at high speed the German raiders, barring mishap, should have reached their advance naval base off Heligoland some time after midnight last night, their trip requiring about 16 hours.

Thirty hours out of port on such a venture of mine-baden waters, is a feat English papers do not belittle, and in his heart, every Englishman hopes that it will be essayed again, and if necessary again, until the call is paid once too often.

It is presumed that behind them the German cruisers strewed mines, so a fleet of trawlers is now out engaged in the precautions task of sweeping. The towns attacked yesterday had resumed much of their normal appearance by today, except in the battered houses and in the hospitals where the wounded were quartered. Everywhere the sound of hammering was heard as the damage was repaired.

The belief is general that the Germans in this expedition had the able assistance of spies. The remarkable secrecy with which the raid was conducted.

17 Killed In Scarborough Including Five Children, While Thirty Were Wounded

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

York, England, via London, Dec. 17.—Refugees from Scarborough were still arriving at York and Leeds at an early hour today, although the bombardment of Scarborough by German warships began at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and lasted but half an hour. Scarborough last evening had its streets filled with crowds and even the moving picture houses were open, but all the people were discussing the attack in which five children, five women and seven men perished and thirty were wounded and over a hundred houses were struck.

The attack was so sudden that the people at first believed the cannonading came from target practice, but they were soon undeceived. The bombardment was divided into two sections of fifteen minutes each with an interval of five minutes between them. The second half was the more violent. One battleship and two cruisers did the firing, steaming northward after the bombardment. Not a shot was fired in reply by the city, as there was no cannon.

Among the dramatic incidents was that in which one family of four was wiped out. The father died in a hospital but his wife, son and nephew were killed outright. The home of the Right Hon. Russell Rea, member of Parliament for the district, was blown up but the family escaped. A shell blew the chimney and part of the roof off the hospital. The patients were unhurt, although they were thrown into a panic. The shells were all explosive. A hotel, a church and many houses were hit.

The same squadron which shelled Scarborough bombarded Whitby later, an action which seemed to be the result of an aft thought.

During the bombardment of Scarborough there was great excitement, but calm soon prevailed again. The inhabitants likened the bombardment to a terrific thunderstorm. It appearing as though the Germans intended not to leave a house standing. The people were herded out of the lower part of the city, the poor quarter, by soldiers as this section was a prominent target. Notices were published by the police asking residents to report all unexploded shells which were found, and several were brought to police headquarters.

A Kidney Remedy Advertisement Brought Great Happiness

I take pleasure in stating that I have used Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, that I was greatly benefited by the same and have used it in my family. I had a son, when quite young, who suffered from bladder or kidney affliction. I called in my physician, he attended him but did him no good. Almost by accident I noticed an advertisement about the curative properties of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. I procured a bottle and gave it to him according to directions. It cured him of what we thought was almost impossible and the same with others of my family. I have such strong faith in Swamp-Root that I have never done without it in my family since the wonderful cure of my son as well as myself. I recommend it to all who suffer from kidney or bladder troubles and I am led to believe that it is one of the best medicines for the purpose for which it is used, that has ever been discovered.

This is my experience from the use of Swamp-Root. Wishing the promoters of this wonderful medicine a large sale to the suffering public. I am, Yours respectfully,

BABY SCALDED AT HER HOME; SHE MAY DIE

Sylvia, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Wichterman, residing at 350 Buena Vista street, was so seriously scalded on Thursday morning that the injuries may result fatally.

Mrs. Wichterman was engaged in doing the family washing and a tub of scalding water had been placed on the floor. The children had been playing in another room, when Sylvia suddenly ran out in the kitchen and walked backward into the tub of water. Her mother hastily caught her up, but not before the flesh on the back had been scalded and one elbow was seriously burned. Dr. C. F. Legge was called and dressed the injuries, and she is resting more comfortably, but it is possible the child may die.

French Report Trenches Taken By the Bayonet

(Associated Press Telegram)

Paris, Dec. 17.—The French war office gave out an official statement this afternoon as follows:

"Between our lines and the Lys we have occupied several German trenches at the point of the bayonet; consolidated our positions at Lombardie and St. Georges, and organized the territory taken from the enemy to the west of Gheluvelt."

"We have made progress at some points in the region of Vermelles."

"There has been no infantry action along the remainder of the front, but we report very effective shooting on the part of our heavy artillery in the environs of Tracy-le-Val, on the Aisne and in Champagne, as well as in the Argonne and in the region of Verdun."

"In Lorraine and in Alsace there is nothing to report."

ANGER SUCCEEDS PANIC

was executed is shown by the fact that not a single incoming vessel at any east coast port saw the German ships prior to their sudden appearance.

The nearest parallel to this visit of yesterday is found in the activities of John Paul Jones, the terror of English shipping, who menaced English coast towns in 1779.

A majority of the victims at Hartlepool were women and children. Fifteen school boys were killed by a single shell, only one boy in a group escaping. Ten persons were killed by the collapse of a building in which they had taken shelter.

One shell damaged a building five miles from shore.

Sad Scenes In Scarborough; Woman Literally Blown to Pieces

(Associated Press Telegram)

Scarborough (via London), Dec. 17.—"The queen of England waiting place" has recovered today from the unexpected bombardment and the feeling is one of bitter anger at the town's helplessness when under the guns of the German squadron.

The first warning sound of distant firing, which attracted little attention except from the military authorities, came at 5:30 in the morning. At 8 o'clock three German war craft, which the majority of witnesses agree were one battle cruiser and two light cruisers, loomed out of a heavy fog so close underneath the cliffs that they were unable to train their guns on the wireless station on the heights.

However, the big resort hotels on the esplanade and the old town hall offered tempting targets and a rain of shrapnel and lyddite shells began to fall in this section, doing great damage to the hotels and destroying houses and shops in the poorer districts.

A woman in one of these shops was literally blown to pieces.

One of the light cruisers seemed to be doing most of the firing. First, she let go with her stern guns and then, maneuvering further out, devoted her broadsides to the most conspicuous buildings on the higher ground.

As the result of this bombardment three shells found a target in the Scarborough hospital, one tearing a chimney from the roof, another striking the nurses' quarters, and the third demolishing the ornamental facade above the entrance.

The wall of the old castle, which looks formidable, but which has been unoccupied for hundreds of years, were breached by an 8-inch shell.

The gunners now got the correct elevation of the wireless station, but failed to injure it, most of the shells falling in an adjacent field, the turf of which was completely ploughed up by them.

Some of the better class of residences now begin to suffer, one of the first being the home of Russell Rea, member of parliament for the district. His life and that of his wife were saved by the fact that they had gone down for an early breakfast and were in the kitchen, the only part of the house untouched, the rest being a total wreck.

At the same time a small house occupied by a soldier, his wife and their child and nephew, was struck by an explosive shell, reducing the place to kindling wood and killing the whole family.

The bombardment had now been on for 15 minutes and the town was given a five minutes breathing spell. The streets were cleared of the people when the light cruiser, after turning, brought a new broadside into play. The German squadron then faced what looked a deserted city. The gunners now directed their attention to the railroad station with the result that a whole row of houses, including a church in a nearby street, were wrecked, but without loss of life as the occupants had sought safe refuge by this time.

The second bombardment was more violent than the first, but did less damage.

During the early stages of the bombardment the screaming shells caused an indescribable pandemonium; later, the people became still as death under the thunder of the guns which rose to a tremendous crescendo, when the full broadsides were used.

When the ships drew off, the sad search for killed and wounded began. At the hospital, where the wounded began to arrive, the pathetic scenes as anxious relatives awaited the result of the surgeons' examination. Among the wounded were many women and children, one an infant of four months, having had its skull fractured by a bit of shrapnel while in the arms of its mother, who escaped unscathed. A surgeon at the hospital also had a marvelous escape when the casing of an 8-inch shell burrowed into the ground at his feet.

The military authorities, assisted by the police, directed the exodus of the townspeople from the city. Women were favored with seats on the train with the result that but few men departed from the town.

The pathetic helplessness of the refugees brought home the reality of war to this part of England. Many poor people whose homes were destroyed sought refuge in nearby towns. Crowds of these waited about the station, thinking that the scenes of the morning were about to be re-enacted.

One of the first notices posted instructed citizens to bring to the police station all unexploded shells. Among such finds was a five-inch explosive projectile which was hastily put into a bucket of water when a policeman strolled in with it carelessly tucked under his arm.

By midnight the town bore an outward appearance of calm, but anxious groups lingered about the streets.

Many of the persons in these groups were unsmiling in their expressions of resentment because the town was helpless to retaliate on the raiders.

sent to the military authorities of all coast towns and prearranged steps were immediately taken everywhere so as to be prepared in case a raid developed at other points.

For instance, the mayor of Tynemouth, on the North Sea, eight miles northeast of Newcastle, immediately ordered the gas supply turned off, directing the police to round up a large number of aliens and issued the following proclamation to the emergency committee:

"There is a rumor that a battle is proceeding in the North Sea and there is a possibility of a hostile attack on Tynemouth. The civil population is advised to remain indoors, but if the people wish to leave their dwellings they should proceed in the direction of Newcastle."

"There is no reason for undue alarm and we strongly urge the population not to leave town as notice will be promptly given if we consider this necessary."

There is much speculation in London as to how far the German raid has succeeded in creating a feeling of uneasiness or panic in other coast towns.

One of the London newspapers telegraphed to the mayors of all coast towns, asking them what effect the news of the enemy's visit had. All replies received so far indicate that no panic is felt. Among the replies are the following:

"Felixstowe—Complete arrangements have been made here for all eventualities. Business is going on as usual."

"Great Yarmouth—We have taken all necessary precautions to protect the inhabitants in the event of a bombardment here. The people are quiet and calm."

"Harwich—The city is calm and normal."

"Hull—The excitement over the raid soon subsided here. We have full confidence in the navy."

"Lowestoft—The raid has not affected our nerves. The emergency committee has taken every precaution. No attack is expected but we are prepared for any contingency."

A number of refugees and travelers arrived in London from the bombardment towns during the night. Some of them showed signs of the raid in bandages covering minor injuries received.

Arthur Wood, manager of the electric light company at Scarborough, had his head swathed with bandages to cover wounds where pieces of shell had struck him in two or three places. His son, who accompanied him, was also wounded in two places. The elder Wood said:

"I was standing in front of my house when a shell burst a few yards away and fragments ricocheted from a window sill and hit both myself and my son. I took my family to the cellar where we bound up the wounds and remained there until all sounds of the bombardment had ceased. We then decided to leave town for a rest."

"It is my impression that the damage to the fine houses along the water front was very heavy. The town has scarcely a window pane left."

"At the first sound of firing our soldiers were ordered into the trenches to prevent any attempts to land troops."

A commercial traveler, who smoked a cigar on the porch of a hotel at Scarborough throughout the battle said:

"Although there was some excitement in the town the attack was over so soon that there was no panic. The guns engaged in the attack were evidently of small calibre as the damage done by each shell was confined to one area, while some of the shells merely cut clean holes in buildings, passing on harmlessly."

"My hotel was struck by several shells but nobody was injured."

Another passenger from Scarborough was a young housewife, who said:

"At daybreak, I glanced out of my kitchen window and saw three warships lying quietly in the haze, a mile or two off shore. It never occurred to me that they were anything but English ships, so I went quietly about my preparations for breakfast."

"About 8 o'clock I heard the sound of guns out and paid no particular notice. A few minutes later there came a shock—I cannot think of a better word for it. A shell had struck the house and passed straight through the room I was in."

"I was peaching eggs at the time. I looked and saw great holes in the wall near the ceiling, indicating the course of the missile. I was puzzled for a moment and then suddenly I realized that the Germans were shelling Scarborough."

"I took the family to the cellar where we remained for an hour during which one more shell struck the roof and fell into the drawing room, smashing up all the furniture. Another shell ploughed up our garden."

A man's pathway in life isn't drawn with roses when he realizes that he hasn't a cent.

According to an Italian mathematician, every person in the world could stand comfortably in an area of 500 square miles, while a grave yard about the size of Colorado would bury all of them.

DISMISSAL OF MAYOR STAATS OF COSHOCTON

FOR FLAGRANT VIOLATION OF CIVIL SERVICE RULES, URGED BY GOV. COX.

Toledo Embroiled Will be Subject of Report by State Civil Service Commission.

(Associated Press Telegram)

Columbus, Dec. 17.—Recommendation that Mayor Keller of Toledo dismiss immediately civil service commissioners Cordill, Payne and McMahon for failing to prevent wholesale violations of the municipal service law is contained in a report which the state civil service commission will adopt today or tomorrow, according to reports at the commission's office. Members of the commission admitted that they had agreed on the main features of the report but differed slightly on details. The "main features" were interpreted as the recommendation for the municipal commissioners' dismissal and the "details" as the criticism of minor city officials and heads of departments which the report will contain.

The report as prepared and discussed by the commission at a session today covers six typewritten pages, and expressed violent disapproval of methods of many Toledo officials in getting rid of city employees.

Governor Cox expected today to cite Mayor Staats, of Coshocton for dismissal on account of flagrant violation of civil service rules in his city. The mayor will be given 10 days to comply with.

The civil service commission recommendation that the municipal commission be dismissed, actually suspends or removes Mayor Staats from office.

Splendid Banquet Is Enjoyed By Veterans
Of B. & O. Railway

The members of the B. and O. Veteran Association enjoyed a fine turkey banquet Wednesday evening at Moos Hall, and it was an affair that will long be remembered by all those who were fortunate in being present. The wives, daughters and sweethearts of members were also present as guests and they are all of one opinion today, and that is that the B. and O. veterans are certainly royal entertainers.

The guests and their friends were received at the door by a reception committee and escorted to the cloak room and at 8 o'clock were seated at the banquet table. Two hundred and fifty plates were served and the banquet was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. William Gray with an able corps of assistants. Mr. Charles Dean assisted in seating the guests and in the general supervision of arrangements, seeing to it that every one was served with the best of the good things which had been provided.

The menu consisted of turkey with oyster dressing, cranberries, fruit salad, slaw, celery, midge pickles, oysters, cream gravy, waters, brick ice cream, cake, coffee and mints. Four long tables, the full length of the hall, seated the guests and during the time they were at the table music was furnished by a Victrola.

At the conclusion of the feast, chairs were shoved aside, everyone was made comfortable and that well known veteran, Edward L. Weisgerber of North Sixth street, was introduced as the toastmaster of the evening. Mr. Weisgerber is probably the best known railroad man in Ohio. His years of service in the B. and O. have endeared him to the hearts of many, all of whom like to call up old reminiscences of his connection with the service. Mr. Weisgerber accepted the functions of the toastmaster in a graceful acknowledgment in which he told of the aims and objects of the association, how a member must have served twenty years in the B. and O. service and stated that the Newark branch now numbered two hundred and forty members. Mr. Weisgerber thanked those who were responsible for the good things provided and then introduced Hon. George W. Sturman of Baltimore, Md., special representative to the general manager of the B. and O. railroad. Mr. Sturman, too, is known to nearly every veteran along the B. and O. lines, and a meeting would hardly be complete without his presence. He is a fluent talker, an orator of ability, and it is always a pleasure to hear him. In his preliminary remarks he told of his first service, how when a tow-headed youngster badly in need of work he arrived at Grafton, Va., and with heart a throbbing approached the master mechanic and told of his earnest desire for a position and the reply he received: "Young man, if you are looking for honest work you don't need to go any further. Pull off your coat and get busy right away."

"That man," said the speaker, "was Ed. Weisgerber. He gave me my first start in life, and the words he spoke to me on that memorable occasion were never forgotten. Our friendship has been fast and true and it ever will be as long as life lasts."

The speaker then launched into a laudation of the veterans, complimented them on their organization and concluded by reading a letter of regret from Superintendent James M. Jackson for his inability to be present. Toastmaster Weisgerber next introduced James Denison as an orator pre-eminent, one who could always be relied upon in times of need. "Uncle Jim" is never backward when facing an audience, especially when there are any women present, and he was in his usual happy vein Wednesday evening. He prefaced his remarks by stating that he considered himself a youngster while in the presence of some of the vets and recalled an instance when a well known business man met Mr. Weisgerber several years ago and shaking hands with him said: "I'm awfully glad to meet you for I used to know your father years ago when he was master mechanic of the B. and O. at Wheeling." The speaker said that the gentleman must have been mistaken for Mr. Weisgerber's father was never master mechanic of the B. and O., and besides never lived in Wheeling and therefore it must have been the toastmaster himself. Mr. Denison then told of the improvements in railroading that have occurred in the past twenty-five or thirty years and his address was indeed a gem and greatly enjoyed by all present.

H. D. Hale of the Advocate was next called upon and in a few brief remarks lauded the members for the part they have taken in assisting to build up one of the greatest railroad corporations in the country, the meritorious service which they have rendered and the worthy objects in organizing their association and concluded by predicting its successful continuation for many years to come.

Dr. S. C. Priest, chief medical examiner for the B. and O., was the next speaker introduced and gave a splendid talk to the veterans. The doctor has spent many years of service in the company and he recalled his pleasant association with "the boys." He spoke of the friendships he had made among the employees and how he would always cherish them just as long as life lasted.

Dr. Murphy proved that when it came to after dinner speaking he was far from a novice. When called upon by Toastmaster Weisgerber he told in a humorous way how they happened to have the turkey banquet in place of something else, and that now he knew that the committee was satisfied that all railroaders can eat turkey and the good things that are always supposed to accompany it. Mr. Murphy next paid of the praise that should be accorded the railroad boys for the many deeds of valor that they perform, how they constantly took their lives in hand and how they always looked out for those who had entrusted them with lives and property of others. Mr. Murphy's talk was one of the enjoyable affairs of the evening.

Hon. W. E. Miller, one of the guests of the association, was next introduced and told of his friendship for the B. and O. boys, how for years he labored at the Scheidler shops along the B. and O. and how many people thought he really was one of the boys himself. Senator Miller has a warm spot for all the railroad boys and he knows nearly everyone of them personally. He waxed eloquent as he praised them for their long service and spoke of the company's effort to protect them in their promotion of the great "Safety First" idea. The Senator closed by thanking the committee for the pleasant evening which he had enjoyed.

Captain John Doyle was requested by the toastmaster to relate his experiences on his recent hunting trip through the mountains of Tennessee. The captain was busy with a turkey home at the time but he responded by stating that all the boys were familiar with his prowess as a huntsman and they knew that he was a regular Capt. Boarding when it came to handling a fowling piece. Always modest, the Captain stated that he would leave the honors of the hunt to others of the party and the next time he went he would remember all his old comrades with a generous slice of venison.

Thomas Andrews was next called upon and proved that he was an orator of ability for he delved into the subject of railroading and proved that he was a student of all its branches. He spoke of the automatic air and the wonders it accomplishes in handling trains and how danger had been minimized by all the great trunk lines of the country. Mr. Andrews address was an excellent one and he brought out many points of interest to all those present.

Dr. D. M. Smith next recalled instances of his association with the B. and O. in an official capacity and related one in particular that always brought sadness to his heart. It was the story of one of the faithful train boys, crushed between cars with but a few minutes to live, taking his watch from his pocket and handing it to the doctor requested him to take it home to mother with his last words, those of love for her who had done so much for him.

This concluded the program and on motion of Dan Moriarity, seconded by Edward Ryan, a vote of thanks was rendered the speakers and the caterers, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gray.

The affair was a success in every particular and a great deal of praise is due the committee having it in charge, Messrs. Capt. John H. Doyle, J. B. Gorbey and E. E. Moore.

Berlin Claims
That the Cities
Were Fortified

(Associated Press Telegram)
Berlin (via Amsterdam and London), Dec. 17.—Concerning the shelling of Scarborough and Hartlepool the Berliner Tageblatt says:

"Again our naval forces, facing the danger of the scattered mines in the North Sea, shelled English fortified places."

The Deutsche Tages Zeitung expresses satisfaction with the attack, especially immediately after the naval battle of the Falkland Islands.

The Berliner Neuesten Nachrichten has this comment: "This time it is not a daring cruiser trick with the transitory throwing of a bomb, but a regular bombardment of fortified places which is a new voucher for the gallantry of the navy."

The Boeren Zeitung says the bombardment is possibly the herald of greater events.

The Boeren Zeitung has this to say of the German bombardment of English coast towns: "The heroic spirit which animates our army and navy alike has once more been splendidly proven in the attack on the English east coast, which our believed English cousins cannot have believed possible in view of the vigilance of their navy and the protection afforded by extensive mine fields. The plucky German seamen fears neither mine nor superdreadnought. The iron greetings thrown by our naval pieces on the English coast are possibly an indication that greater events are imminent."

DEATH WON

IN RACE WITH TUBERCULOSIS
VICTIM, HURRYING HOME TO ZANESVILLE.

Sank Exhausted in Cincinnati
Waiting Room and Died Before
Telling His Name.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Cincinnati, Dec. 17.—An unidentified man was the loser today in what evidently was a race with death from Palm Beach, Fla., to Zanesville, O. Death claimed him at the Central Union depot in this city. Coroner Fortmeyer is endeavoring to locate relatives. The man arrived in Cincinnati on the Palm Beach special of the Queen & Crescent Railroad early today. He was suffering from tuberculosis in an advanced form. He was traveling alone. Employees carried him into the lower waiting room of the depot. He was just able to say he wanted to catch the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern train for his home in Zanesville. Depot employees aided him in his grim battle. They carried him to the train, but it was evident he was fast expiring. He was carried back into the waiting room and a physician summoned. When he arrived, however, the man was dead. He was about 40 years old.

IT HAPPENED IN NEWARK
And Is Happening to Newark People
Every Week.

The case told below is not an uncommon thing. The same occurs frequently and will continue to happen as long as folks have kidneys and overtax the kidneys.

Mrs. Julia Rost, 140 W. Main St., Newark, says: "About a year ago I read of Doan's Kidney Pills in the paper and as the symptoms I was suffering from were the same as those I had, I knew I was afflicted with kidney complaint. My back troubled me and if I did any sweeping or housework, I was liable to have sharp stitches across my loins. At night my back pained me and I was often troubled by dizziness, especially when I stooped over. Dark specks floated before my eyes and I had headaches. The kidney action was irregular. I look about two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they made my kidneys more normal and relieved the pains in my back."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Rost had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

IRON TRADE REVIEW

Cleveland, Dec. 17.—The Iron Trade Review today says: "Contracting for finished materials is being done in a conservative way, generally up to April 1. Prices are low. There is a bill in pig iron buying after the heavy transactions of recent weeks and it is not expected that there will be much activity until after the holidays."

"The Eastern machinery market is enjoying a very encouraging increase in demand from domestic buyers. A Massillon, O., company is in the market for machine tool equipment to the value of $25,000. Demand from abroad continues and there is active inquiry from France, Russia and England. In the foreign business placed during the past week were a considerable number of lathes for export to France and England. Machine tool business in Pittsburg is improving and there are

Get Together.

There is to be a "Get Together" meeting of Newark men on Tuesday night, Dec. 29, the place and exact hour to be announced later.

The purpose of this meeting is as its name implies, to draw the men of this city together for the purpose of talking over future activities, exchanging ideas, burying past differences and enjoying a social hour. There will of course be good things to eat and one or more men will be invited to address the meeting. An opportunity for a general discussion will be given but there will be no solicitation of funds, no effort to sell stock or to obtain memberships. Nobody who attends this meeting will be solicited for anything.

The Board of Trade the past year has been directed by able, earnest and energetic men but for some unaccountable reason the public has not responded to their call for support. A well prepared and thoroughly practical Factory Fund campaign was inaugurated early in the year but it did not meet with the success it deserved. This was through no fault of the officers and directors of the organization who gave to the project freely of their time, effort and money. Why did the plan fail? What is the matter? What should be done to revive the work and to give Newark a business organization that the public will support enthusiastically?

Other cities far smaller than Newark have commercial clubs that are powerful and effective and every city of consequence has its influential business men's organization. Why shouldn't Newark's organization grow and prosper and do effective work?

The chief reason seems to be a lack of public interest. Each man is too much for himself and not enough for the whole.

It is with the idea of ironing out these conditions and seeking the proper remedy that this call for a meeting of Newark's "live ones" is made.

The Christmas holiday will have passed and the men will have the time on Dec. 29 to devote an hour or two to this subject. They should do so. It is not only to their individual interest to attend this meeting.

Christmas Giving.

Christmas is a time of extremes. Some nervous and emotional people will make gifts running up into the hundreds. The presents are apt to be little knick knacks of no particular value, but supposed to testify to the good will of the sender. They cause some pleasure. But in many cases they impose a burdensome feeling of obligation to make a suitable return.

Other people, disgusted by the excesses of the season, make few gifts or none at all. They merely buy two or three routine presents for their own households, with as little feeling as they order a barrel of flour.

In neither extreme does the giver find the real spirit of Christmas. It is not swapping a card case for a book set with some neighbor with whom you have no close intimacy. Rather it is gladdening the heart of the child faces of your own circle of relatives, and dropping a Christmas basket here and there among the needy. That kind of thing never promotes nervous prostration, and it keeps the heart open.

Co-Operative Cooking.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Montclair, N. J., a progressive community, is trying to solve the domestic problem by establishing a co-operative kitchen. This institution serves meals to all shareholders from a central plant. The meals are sent out in containers, and are to be eaten at home, which preserves the privacy of domestic life, and avoids the bother and worry of cooking.

This plan is said to work very well in Montclair, but in view of the many failures of co-operative enterprises in this country it is hardly safe to conclude that the success will be permanent. Montclair is, as we understand it, a community in which a large share of the citizens can disregard the question of economy, and choose between the expense of co-operative meals and meals prepared by their servants.

We confess to less interest in the economy of such households than of those where the labor of the women is a vital factor. If the wives of working men could organize a co-operative plan by which they could share the work, do better cooking and buy their supplies more cheaply in wholesale quantities, it would be a great gain. But with regard to such a plan the difficulty is not so much in the question as to whether the food can be bought more cheaply and cooked more advantageously. It is whether the women can be induced to unite and work the organization in peace and harmony.

Freight Rate Increase.

There could be no more acceptable Christmas present to the people of the United States than a favorable decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the application for an increase in freight rates, which it is rumored is to be announced soon. But it will not do to bank too heavily on such a gift. Judging by its past record, there is not much of the Santa Claus spirit in the Commission.—Philadelphia Record.

English Mines in Serbia.

Valjevo, the Serbian town, which the Austrians sacked owed something of its prosperity to England. For the lead mines in its neighborhood were developed and carried on by an English company, which also introduced English methods of smelting. Valjevo is fortunate in its situation. Its pastures are celebrated for their cattle, and it is the center of a rich plum-growing country.—London Chronicle.

The Eight Governors.

Of the eight governors who in 1912 signed a joint letter asking Mr. Roosevelt to run for the presidency only one is now in office. Gov. Carey of Wyoming. The other seven: Stubbs of Kansas, Osborn of Oklahoma, Hadley of Missouri, Aldrich of Nebraska, Bass of New Hampshire, Glasscock of West Virginia and Vessey of Dakota are down and out!—Buffalo Courier.

Same in Newark.

The man who enthuses over the "bracing winter weather" should remember that there are thousands of men, women and children in our city whose misery is immeasurably increased by the cold wave. The lower the temperature, the greater the need for contributions of money, food and clothing. Call up any of the well-known charitable agencies and your donation will be sent out by the city this morning. Do your cold weather giving early, when it is most needed.—Pittsburg Gazette Times.

Immigration.

The number of immigrant aliens arriving in October was 23,116, compared with 13,110 in the same month last year. The steady decrease of competing labor from Europe since the war began ought to help some in the solution of the problem of unemployment, in unskilled lines at least. New York World.

Kaiser Wilhelm as He Is.

The most noticeable of his features are his eyes—gray, shot with a peculiar yellow glint. They are slightly prominent, and their customary expression is a stare, which has something of curiosity in its haughty pride. Those unaccustomed to that stare become readily embarrassed by it. When the Kaiser is displeased the pupils roll sideways, displaying the whites of the eye, after the fashion of some ferocious animal.

The Kaisers complexion is slightly pallid, but clear, and indicative of clean living and active habits. His hair is plentiful, his mouth firm but gross, and his forehead high. The touch of art is supplied to his countenance by the aggressive military twist to the mustache, familiar to everyone who ever heard of the Kaiser. Afoot, the Kaiser carries himself like a soldier and a gentleman; on horseback, like a conquering king.

His manner is usually stern, but can, on occasions, be gracious, friendly and even jovial. This is particularly the case when he is talking to foreign men of note, or to pretty women.

He is impatient of the opinions of men of independent minds, and takes no advice. This renders him accessible to the influence of skillful flatterers, a class with whom all monarchs are more or less surrounded.—The Real Kaiser.

FRAIL HUMANITY.

Alas, we are but sorry critters, we human beings, one and all; we do our best, we are not quitters, but our results seem beastly small. You know how earnestly we swatted all through the stifling summer days, and many a pack of flies we potted, and revelled in your well earned praise. With patient zeal and purpose sober we carried on our endless quest, from early June until October we slew the flies and took no rest. With hardly time to eat our dinner, we soaked the flies from sun to sun; but were their legions any thinner for all the swatting we had done? Perhaps some highbrow statistician might prove there was a million less than when, with high and pure ambition we started out—but that's a guess. Worn out by weary months of slaughter, we rest at last, our muscles lame; and then Dame Nature takes her swatter, and shows us how to play the game. She sends some weather cold and foggy, or springs a frost that paints things white, and lo! the flies are rendered gummy—a hundred billion in a night! When nature does her wholesale killing, man looks as helpless as a doll; he does his best, his heart is willing, but his results are cheap and small.

QUARANTINE

AS IT AFFECTS LICKING COUNTY, MODIFIED BY TODAY'S ORDERS.

From Washington, and Free Shipment of Stock Allowed Within Certain Limits.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, Dec. 17.—Federal quarantine restrictions against shipping of livestock out of the state on account of the foot and mouth disease were modified today by authorities at Washington to apply to 13 counties. According to word received at the headquarters of the state agricultural commission and Dr. Marion Innes, federal inspector, who recommended the modifications, shipments may be made to states which have federal inspection without inspection of the livestock at the point of shipment, from Trumbull, Gurnsey, Wayne and Tuscarawas counties. In ten other counties, shipments may be made after inspection by federal veterinarians. These counties are Lucas, Crawford, Fulton, Mahoning, Marion, Ottawa, Probler, Williams, Wyandot and Hardin.

The internal state quarantine was modified today by the agricultural commission as follows:

"Hunting and free shipment of live stock is permitted in Putnam and Williams counties except in territory within a three mile radius of infection cases. Prosecutors are authorized to issue permits for movement of stock to winter quarters within the three or five miles restricted area in a number of counties, among which are Licking, Allen, Erie, Fayette, Lucas, Montgomery, Muskingum, Ross and Stark."

CARRANZA FORCE OPENS FIRE ON THE BESIEGERS

(Associated Press Telegram)
Naco, Ariz., Dec. 17.—The Carranza garrison of Naco, Sonora, opened fire with artillery at daylight today on the entrenchments of the Maytorena besiegers. The evident effort to provoke a reply from Maytorena failed up to 9 o'clock.

Military observers on the American side, however, believed Maytorena ultimately would be forced to renew the interchange of shots.

GOETHALS TO MAKE A VISIT TO THE U. S.

WILL APPEAR BEFORE THE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE ON NEEDS OF PANAMA.

Cruiser Tacoma Left Cuba Today for the Canal Zone to Enforce Neutrality.

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, Dec. 17.—Geo. W. Goethals, governor of the Panama canal sailed from Colon today for New York. He is coming to Washington to appear before congressional committee in charge of appropriations for the canal work.

Col. Goethals' visit was planned and announced a month ago without reference to any of the recent questions relating to the neutrality of the canal.

Secretary Garrison, in a statement today said Col. Goethals' approaching visit to the United States was only in order that he may appear before congress with reference to canal appropriations.

"His visit to the United States has nothing whatever to do with this matter of neutrality, and I cannot too strongly emphasize the fact that there has been nothing whatever sensational in this incident, excepting that which has been imparted to it by the newspapers," said Mr. Garrison.

"The secretary of the navy informs me that he has ordered one ship to proceed immediately and will probably order others, if necessary, to handle the wireless situation. I am informing Col. Goethals today of this fact and also that the secretary of the navy will give instructions to the commanders of the ships to aid the zone authorities in any needed way to preserve neutrality."

The cruiser Tacoma, ordered to the Panama canal zone to enforce neutrality, left Guantanamo today for Cristobal.

Secretary Daniels was without further advice today from the canal zone, but said if another vessel were sent there it probably would be one of the destroyers now at San Diego, California. Previous orders directing the Tacoma to relieve the battleship Minnesota at Vera Cruz, have been cancelled. The Minnesota at Vera Cruz has been cancelled. The Minnesota will proceed immediately to Philadelphia for overhauling.

THAT MAN'S XMAS? HERE'S THE ANSWER TO THE QUESTION.

Just before the Christmas holidays, when the stores are thronged by the "last-minute rush," when you've often racked your brains for an idea that will solve the question of what to give husband, father, brother Tom or Jack; when you've looked back on former trials, due to your having picked the wrong tie or a misfit shirt or socks that were too small—did it ever occur to you that you might settle the matter quickly and satisfactorily without losing any beauty sleep by giving him a glass humidor of Prince Albert, the national joy smoke?

It's a neat looking crystal-glass receptacle, holding a pound of the best-tasted tobacco made. Whenever the supply is exhausted it may readily be replenished, and the humidor keeps the tobacco moist, fresh and fragrant all the time.

You will find it in all stores where tobacco is sold, and you needn't hesitate to walk right in and ask for it. The clerk won't bite and the tobacco can't, either. The bite has been taken out of P. A. by a wonderful patented process. Think of the pleasure it will give "him" and the possible annoyance it will save you. It's a gift that will not be slipped to the janitor or the office boy like a tie that doesn't strike "his" fancy.

And furthermore, when "he" is thinking of a gift for a business associate or acquaintance or a male relative, help him out of the difficulty by suggesting a crystal-glass humidor of Prince Albert. As a man's gift it cannot be duplicated in acceptability by anything else at so nominal a cost. Its found at the nearest shop that sells tobacco.

Many a fellow is so slow as to stick fast.

FLOATING ISLANDS.

Japan Has a Lake of Them, and They Sometimes Capsize.

In Yamagata, Japan, is a small lake called the Lake of the Floating Islands, discovered about the year 1340, which has from that time attracted the attention of many poets and literary men. A report on the mysterious movements of these islands, drawn up by a party under Professor S. Kusakabe, is published in the science reports of the Tohoku Imperial university.

The floating islands, which at times number no fewer than sixty, are found to be continually changing their positions, moving first one way and then the other. In the first series of observations wooden floats were placed in the lake, showing the distribution of the various currents. Subsequently a model of the lake was constructed, and it was found possible closely to reproduce the various movements of the surface. When both water and wind currents were taken into account the actual behavior of the islands was found to be quite in accordance with theory and experiment.

The islands originate from masses of vegetable debris, which are first carried to the surface by bubbles of gas; then reeds commence to grow from seed on them. Sometimes the mass becomes topheavy and overturns, and reeds grow on the other side, until the island has grown sufficiently large in extent to secure stability.

TEST OF A TOASTMASTER.

His Speech, Whether It Be Good or Bad, Should Be Very Brief. To the average man an invitation to "make a few remarks" after dinner is at once a terror and a secret pride. To be asked to be the toastmaster at a big dinner is usually taken as recognition of wit and knowledge.

The toastmaster's speech should be very brief. If he is a good speaker himself a speech of any considerable length imposes unfair competition upon the real speakers, usually visiting guests, whom he is to introduce. If the toastmaster is a poor speaker he bores the audience and the waiting guests as well. And in any event every minute occupied by the toastmaster is a robbery of the time of the real speakers of the evening, and an after dinner speaker may have a real message that needs delivery, and the long drawn introduction, with side lights and anecdotes, will really cheat the audience of something worth while. The toastmaster has a task of courtesy—to prepare the diners for the man who is to speak, to tame and train the audience into a proper frame of mind and to turn it over to the speaker informed as to his identity, prejudiced in his favor a little perhaps, but certainly not in the reaction following a laugh raised by the toastmaster.—Boston Globe.

Are Foxes Vegetarians?

Foxes are not generally accredited with vegetarian instincts. You never see their tracks, as you see those of rabbits, around a young oak tree shoot which has been nibbled down to the tough stem. But Aesop evidently thought otherwise when he wrote his fable of the sour grapes, and there is plenty of testimony that Aesop was right. Foxes do eat wild grapes, as many observers have testified, climbing a considerable way to get them, and probably at times they eat berries and perhaps apples. I have found their tracks, at any rate, beneath apple trees. I have also been confidently assured that they eat the persimmons in Virginia, that the "ol' houn' dawgs" know how good this fruit is, too, and if you wish to find the very best bee tree take a "dawg" with you.—Walter Prichard Eaton in Harper's Magazine.

A Famous Warhorse.

The following inscription marks the grave at Stratfieldsaye of Wellington's famous charger, Copenhagen, which died in 1835 at the ripe old age of twenty-seven. This charger was buried with military honors:

God's humble instrument, though meaner than clay,
Should share the glories of that glorious day.

Copenhagen, it might be mentioned, was the grandson of the mighty Eclipse, and Wellington paid £400 for him. His powers of endurance were marvelous. "I rode him," said Wellington, "at the battle of Waterloo from 4 in the morning until midnight. If he fed it was in the standing corn and as I sat in the saddle."—London Globe.

A Spacious Plea.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and thick with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we won't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts to flush out your kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever. Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

When They Mined the Nile.
In the Sudan campaign as the British troops approached Omdurman the Khalifa Abdullah conceived the idea of upsetting the British gunboat expedition by mining the Nile. A former officer of the Egyptian army whom he had long held prisoner was ordered by the khalifa to construct a couple of mines, which were produced forthwith. They were primitive in form, consisting, in fact, of two old iron boilers stuffed with gunpowder, in which was concealed a pistol with a string attached to the trigger whereby the charge could be exploded. The first mine was laid by the Ismailia, worked by a native crew, and demonstrated its efficiency by exploding on the instant, sinking the Ismailia and killing the crew, including the mine constructor.
The khalifa was delighted, not at the accident, but at the testimony to the power of the invention, and immediately ordered the emir in charge of his arsenal to lay the second mine. The mineer, profiting by experience, insured his safety by putting the Nile into the boiler before he put the boiler into the Nile. He then carried out the immersion successfully, to the joy of Abdullah, who loaded him with "presents and praises."—Manchester Guardian.

Why Does War Go On?

Editor of the Advocate.

Sir:—When we read each day of this cruel war going on, and conflicts increasing and not decreasing, we cannot refrain from asking why does this war go on? What is it that is urging men on to wound and kill each other? Where is the principle, and what is it that inspires men's hearts to engage in this awful bloody havoc of human life? We admire President Wilson for the plain avowal of his convictions in his message to Congress. It shows the broad mind and big heart of the president when he says, "We are at peace with all the world." From the beginning of this terrible war, our president has had a clear and settled policy as regards peace in this time of war. He has held up to the American people the necessity of peace, and now at this season of the year when peace is needed to make this world what the angels sang on Christmas day, "Peace on earth, good will to men." Oh, the horror of it all, when we read of men walking over the bodies of their friends in their blood-thirsty desire to kill! Why should these nations be at war? What is to be the gain? We can only see useless bloodshed, ruined homes, widows and orphans with grief and sorrow their portion. All they have for shelter is the great loving arms of God, who has promised never to leave or forsake them if they trust Him. We often wonder if after this war is ended, the ruin and havoc will not cause many hearts to turn to Him who is "strong to deliver and mighty to save," may we all pray earnestly that these very nations now on fire for battle, may be Christian nations in very truth; when the war is ended and "Peace on earth, good will to men," is known all over this world. May the lesson learned from this war be such that there will never be another war in the world.

MRS. JULIA ABBOTT.

Judge Kibler's Contemporaries.

Editor of the Advocate:

The associated members of the Bar in active practice with Chas. H. Kibler, were for longevity, one of the most remarkable instances in the history of the Licking County Bar, as well as any other bar in the state. They were Genl. Geo. B. Smythe, who lived to be in his 93rd year, Judge Follett, who lived to be in his 89th year; Judge Kibler, who lived to be in his 87th year; Henry D. Sprague, who lived to be in his 82nd year; Judge Buckingham who lived to be in his 81st year and James R. Stanberry who lived to be in his 78th year.

All these gentlemen were what we now term old school lawyers, some of them practicing under the old common law system of pleading before abolished by the code, which was a very hard system of pleading and practice.

Curious People of New Guinea.

New Guinea contains some of the most remarkable people in the world, the Papuans. One curious fact about one of the tribes of New Guinea is that they wear what are probably the largest hats in existence. These hats are from six to eight feet high and gorgeously colored. They are adorned with feathers, colored fibers and shells, beaks of hornbills and plumes of the birds of paradise. They are handed down from father to son as heirlooms, and a native will not be tempted to part with his headdress for any price. New Guinea, too, contains some of the smallest people in the world, pygmies that were only discovered a few years ago, for the great island has still thousands of square miles that have not been explored. These pygmies are only just over four feet in height, but what they lack in inches they make up in ugliness.

PAY ROLL

OF CITY TEACHERS ALLOWED BUT $7000 MUST BE BORROWED TO MEET IT

Fire Damage at Central School Nearly Repaired—Superintendent's Report to Board.

A shortage of gas did not prevent the members of the board of education from meeting in adjourned session Wednesday evening but it was of short duration and only important business was transacted.

President W. C. Christian presided and other members present were Messrs. Dewey, Haight, Rank and Miller. After the reading and approval of the minutes the board decided to omit the paying of all bills until after the first of the year when they will receive their semi-annual settlement.

The State Boiler Inspector sent a communication that a preliminary inspection had been made of all the school boilers. This was imperative on account of insurance which will soon be issued.

The payroll of all teachers, officers and janitors for the current month was allowed. It was necessary to borrow $7,000 at one of the local banks to meet it.

The repairing at the Central school made necessary by the recent fire is about completed and the rooms will be ready it is thought right after the Christmas vacation.

Superintendent Hawkins gave his report which was brief, there being only one thing of special import that he wished to call the board's attention to. That was the need of a substitute teacher who could be placed at his discretion any place in the city. This was discussed pro and con and Mr. Hawkins was granted the privilege of securing the teacher.

President Christian asked Truant Officer Handle to see that all the babbler fountains in the various buildings, were shut off at night as it made a useless waste of water, the city paying for the pumping.

Before adjournment each member was presented with a fine box of candy made by the domestic science teacher and pupils.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE RECEIVED AT ELK CLUB

Scores of letters are being received at the Elk club from little children telling what they want Santa Claus to bring them for Christmas. They are heart-touching and pitiful and while the big-hearted members of the order would like to comply with the requests it will be impossible this year. The lodge has decided to send out the necessities of life instead of toys, for scores of Newark laborers are out of work and in actual need.

It is hoped that the parents of the little ones tell them that this year old Kris Kringle is going to bring them good things to eat and some other time he will remember them with toys and make them happy. It is indeed sad to think that many of the little ones will not be remembered this year with toys and playthings but the times are such that other action is necessary.

The Elk Christmas committee is meeting with much success and already several hundred dollars have been contributed by the generous hearted members of the order in addition to different kinds of provisions, canned goods, clothing, etc.

Charles Henry of West Park place Thursday sent the Elk committee an order for one hundred and fifty loaves of bread. There will be one hundred and fifty baskets of provisions and each one of these will contain a loaf of bread and a pound of good butter in addition to many other things, such as a peck of potatoes, sack of flour, coffee, beans, rice, sugar and five pounds of meat. The generosity of Mr. Henry is highly appreciated and it is hoped that his example will be followed by others.

Those desiring to make contributions can call up Dr. J. D. Lewis or the Steward of the Elk club and they will be given proper credit.

ARMY AND NAVY TERMS

Origin of Some of the Titles and Expressions in Use.

Here are the origins of some of the terms used in the army and navy: "Captain" is derived from the Latin "caput," meaning a head, "colonel" comes from the Italian "colonna," a column, the "compagnia colonella" having been the first company of an infantry regiment, the little column which the "colonel" led. The title "lieutenant" comes from a word signifying "holding the place"—e. g., a lieutenant colonel is a sort of understudy for a colonel, a lieutenant looks after a company in the absence of the captain, and so on. The titles of "lance sergeant" and "lance corporal" originated in the fact that in the old days the holders of those ranks carried a lance instead of a halberd, round the head of which was twisted a slow match. Their duties were to go round the ranks with these torchlike lances and give fire to the matchlock men just before a battle took place.

The word "dragoon" was first used of a regiment of mounted infantry, so called from the "dragons," or short muskets, with which they were armed; the well known cavalry call of "Boo! and saddle!" is really a corruption of the old French signal, "Doute selle," or "Put on your saddles." "Admiral" comes from the Arabic "Emir of bagh," meaning "Lord of the sea"; "commandore" comes from the Italian "comandatore"; "mate" is from the Icelandic and means an equal, and the term "living quarter" is believed to have originated in the agreement which existed in the old fighting days, that the ransom of a foot soldier should be one-quarter of his pay for one year.—Pearson's Weekly.

BELFRY OF BRUGES.

A Belgian Landmark That Goes Back to the Thirteenth Century.

Of all the cities of Belgium Bruges has best preserved its medieval characteristics. Bruges in Flemish means bridges, the city deriving its name from its many bridges, all opening in the middle to admit of the passage of vessels. It is connected with the sea, eight miles away, by the three canals from Ghent, Sluys and Ostend.

Dating from the third century, Bruges ultimately became the metropolis of the world's commerce. Seventeen privileged trading companies, from seventeen different kingdoms, settled there, while its importance was such that twenty ministers from foreign courts at one time had mansions within its walls.

The belfry of Bruges is probably the most famous in the world. It was built at the end of the thirteenth century. It is 353 feet high and possesses a carillon of forty-eight bells, regarded as the finest in Europe. It is really one of the detached municipal belfries which were erected in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries in certain continental towns as important symbols of their freedom.

Caxton, the first English printer, lived at Bruges, where he served out his apprenticeship after the death, in 1441, of his first master, Robert Lange (lord mayor of London, 1439-40). Caxton lived in Bruges for thirty-five years, when he returned to London and set up his press in Westminster.—London Answers.

Wellington's Plans.

Wellington's reticence once drew a protest from Lord Uxbridge, the brilliant cavalry leader, who lost a leg at Waterloo and became Marquis of Anglesey. On the eve of the great battle Uxbridge, although next to Wellington in command, knew nothing of his chief's plans for the morrow's battle. With trepidation he approached the duke. If Wellington were killed Uxbridge would become commander in chief. What was the plan? The duke listened patiently. "Tell me, Uxbridge, who will attack the first tomorrow, I or Bonaparte?" "Undoubtedly Bonaparte." "Well, Bonaparte hasn't given me any idea of his projects, and, as my plans depend upon his plans, how can you expect me to tell you mine?"—London Standard.

Source of Supply.

"What is one of the principal products of the West Indies?" asked the teacher.

The class remained dubiously silent. "Oh, come, think a little!" adjured the teacher, with patient encouragement. "Billy, tell the class where the sugar you use in your home comes from."

Billy pondered bashfully for a moment, then, blushing, blurted out: "Sometimes we buy it at the grocer's, but I think we usually borrow it from the folks who live next door."—Chicago News.

Happy Thought.

Ministerial Friend on a visit—1 wonder what it is that makes your mamma so happy today? She is singing around all over the house. Little Nell—I don't see the thought of someone to send papa about when he comes home.—London Tit-Bits.

"Far me that $5 then?"

INTEREST IS ON THE INCREASE AT TENTH ST. CHURCH

If you want to hear the old time Gospel once more, come to the Tenth Street United Brethren church where it is proclaimed under the direction of the Holy Spirit. The meetings are increasing in attendance and interest each night and souls are being saved. Already nearly half a hundred people have knelt at the altar of prayer and surrendered their lives to God.

Rev. Mr. White preaches the Gospel so plainly that any child can understand. He calls sin by its right name and plainly shows the sinner where he stands and just as clearly shows him the way of salvation.

Last night the pastor preached from St. Mark 5:25-26, likening the sinner under conviction to this woman's realization of her need of relief from her physical infirmities. "The convicted sinner searches every place and puts faith in every thing in this world, but receives no more relief than did the woman while trusting in her physicians. Relief comes to the sinner only when he, like this woman, comes in touch with Jesus Christ."

If you are a sinner, come and give your heart to God. If a Christian, come and work for the Master. Services each evening, beginning at 7:15, and each afternoon at 2 o'clock. The leading feature of the afternoon meetings is the Bible reading. These Bible readings are systematic and along lines of vital importance in the life of every Christian and of every one who wants to help a soul to find Jesus Christ. We invite you to all these services and will give you the glad hand.

ILLINOIS PLANS BOXING BILL FOR NEW YEAR

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Five bills designed to legalize boxing in Illinois, will be introduced in the state legislature when it convenes in January. It was learned today.

Edward M. Santry, who a score of years ago was a well-known feather-weight boxer, and who was elected to the legislature at the last election, is the author of one of the bills. The sport, it is planned, will be conducted under a boxing commission rule.

Illuminating Gas.

In 1792 a manufacturer of Redruth, in Cornwall, named Murdoch made gas to light his home and factory. Pall Mall, in London, 1807, was the first street to be lighted by gas. Philadelphia introduced it in 1815, Boston in 1822 and New York in 1825. Gas is obtained from coal, which is heated in large retorts. The heavy gas drawn off passes by a pipe, called the hydraulic main, through a number of curved pipes called condensers, in which process coal tar and ammoniacal liquor condense and fall into a well. The gas passes to purifiers over slaked lime, which takes up sulphuretted hydrogen and carbonic acid. It is then beaded downward to the gas holder, a large tank having its base resting on water and from which the gas is distributed to the consumers. Certain by-products are obtained in the course of manufacture which are more valuable than the gas itself. These include coke, ammonia, aniline, phenol or carbolic acid; naphthalene dyes, various artificial drugs and basic perfumes.—Christian Herald.

The Actor's Triumph.

In 1845 the Boulevard du Temple was the heart of the theatrical world of Paris. In the ten theaters that lined that comparatively short thoroughfare so much blood was shed on the stage every evening at the popular plays that it was known as the Boulevard du Crime.

The audience became so passionately devoted to some of the characters interpreted for their pleasure that they sometimes showed quite fierce hostility to the actors who had to take parts inimical to them. One night, for instance, Briand, who had represented Hudson Lowe in a scene on the island of St. Helena when Napoleon was imprisoned there, was seized by some thousands as he left the theater and flung into the basin of the Chateau d'Eau. This quite delighted him, and he glared over it as a triumph when he was telling the tragic-comic incident the next day.—Bookman.

Making an Army Sword.

Army swords are tempered in oil. After the blade, pounded, rolled and hammered to the right length, is ground it is subjected to severe tests. The point is caught under a staple, and the blade is bent over a block of wood, making the arc of circle about thirty-five inches in diameter. It is then bent in the opposite direction. Afterward the blade is struck on an oak block and tested on sides and edges. Finally it is dipped in oil and bent. While it is bent the oil is wiped off. If the blade is cracked, even though the defects might be otherwise invisible to the eye, the oil in the minute crevices will be forced to the surface when the blade is straightened, and the defects will instantly be revealed by slight streaks of oil little wider than a hair.

A Good Word For the Salmon.

Salmon live and flourish only in the purest waters of the seven seas and in the clearest of the rivers that flow into them. They exercise the utmost care in choosing the places where they breed and feed. From the time of their birth to the day they are caught they live in surroundings that are as nearly perfect from a sanitary point of view as nature can make them, and from the time they are caught and packed until they are placed before human beings as food they are kept beyond all danger of contamination. Their meat has an attractive appearance, has a delicious flavor, is readily digestible and contains as much, if not more, of the elements that are required by the human system than other forms of meat.—Western Canner and Packer.

Mountain of the Sacred Footprint.

Adam's perch, or Mount Samanala, a rugged mountain in the island of Ceylon, is known throughout the orient as the "Mountain of the Sacred Footprint." In a flat, rocky basin at the foot of this mountain in stone as hard as blue granite there is the perfect imprint of a gigantic human foot, five and one-half feet long by two and one-half feet wide. The Ceylonese Brahmins have a legend to the effect that the imprint was made by Adam, our first parent, but the Buddhists declare that it could have been made by no one but Buddha.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head and catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dizziness, headache, no yawning, sniffling, mucous discharges or dryness, no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Elys Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

A MILITARY DANDY.

Ruzsky's Daintiness Under Fire the Start of His Rise to Fame.

General Ruzsky, who commanded the Russian army that overran Galicia and became in consequence the hero of the day in Russia, was conspicuous as a young lieutenant for the daintiness and elegance of his dress.

In the Russo-Turkish war of 1877 Ruzsky, then a young lieutenant, served as aid-de-camp on the staff of one of the Russian generals. In the heat of the battle of Plevna he was ordered to take a dispatch to the command or in chief, the famous Skobelev. He found Skobelev standing in a rather exposed position, surrounded by his staff.

As young Ruzsky delivered his dispatch a shell from a Turkish battery struck the ground near by and, exploding, dung a shower of dust and dirt over the party. Most of the officers involuntarily ducked their heads, but young Ruzsky stood firm and erect. Then, as calmly as if he were in a ballroom, he drew from his pocket a spotless linen handkerchief and flicked the dust from his immaculate uniform.

A smile of derision passed over the faces of the staff officers, but Skobelev looked at the young lieutenant with sudden interest and asked his name. "You will remain with me as a member of my staff," he said to the astonished young officer. "I am in need of such men as you."

Years after, when Ruzsky's service had proved the correctness of General Skobelev's estimate of his abilities, the general told the incident of the bursting shell to the czar.

"When a soldier has such a keen regard for his appearance before his fellow man that no danger can make him unconcerned about the figure he cuts," explained Skobelev, "he makes a dependable leader of men. He will suffer death rather than permit any regard for his personal safety to impair the impression of inferiority that he is so anxious to make upon his fellow man. Even though he be a coward at heart he will always play the part of a brave man in his desire to have men consider him possessed of superior qualities."

"In Ruzsky I am doubly fortunate," concluded the veteran general, "for Ruzsky is both a dandy and a brave man."—Youth's Companion.

Japan's Religions.

The two religions of Japan, Buddhism and Shintoism, are entirely different in the decorations of their temples. Temples and shrines dedicated to Buddha are very elaborate and beautiful. Those devoted to the worship of Shinto are very plain and ordinary.

"Lovely disposition?"

"No. Good discipline. She's afraid that if she keeps noticing me I'll get notions of self importance."—Washington Star.

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but Is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It cures the usual cough, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinx. (36 cts. a bottle) and a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinx. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and builds the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent hoarseness by restoring the formation of plicae in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pinx on the membrane is known by almost every one. Pinx is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with quinine and other natural healing ingredients.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinx," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinx Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

It Happened in China.

An American commercial traveler who was in China soon after the downfall of the empire was approached one day by a Chinaman, who told him, in fairly good English, that he had a brick of pure silver, weighing thirty pounds, which had been looted from one of the government treasuries during a riot. The Chinaman explained that to only an American would he trust the secret and said that he would sell the silver for a sum which amounted to $5 in our money.

Not being one who would look such a gift horse in the mouth, the American promptly paid the $5 and took possession of the silver bar.

Soon after, being in Hongkong and wishing to test the value of his purchase, the American took the silver bar to a Chinese assayer and asked for its weight.

The pigtailed savant of the scales carefully tested the metal, weighed it and then remarked laconically, "He weigh lead."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Letters of Introduction.

In Rubinstein's reminiscences in the Paris Annales we read how the illustrious pianist went from Berlin to settle in Vienna, fortified by letters of introduction to various celebrities given to him by the Russian ambassador at the Prussian court. He presented several of them without any beneficial result, and it then occurred to him to tear open those which remained and read them. They all ran, he says, roughly speaking, as follows:

Dear Countess—Our position as ambassador and ambassador imposes upon us the tiresome duty of patronizing and introducing all kinds of compatriots, who are often most impudent in their solicitations. I therefore now venture to introduce to you a certain Rubinstein, the bearer of this communication.

After that experience, Rubinstein says, he threw all his letters of introduction into the fire and found that he got on a great deal better without them.

Easing Your Burden.

One hot summer day I was driving along when I overtook a woman who carried a heavy basket. She gladly accepted my offer of a ride, but sat with the heavy basket still on her arm.

"My good woman," I said, "your basket will ride just as well in the bottom of the carriage and you would be much more comfortable."

"So it would, sir, thank you," said she; "I never thought of that."

"That is what I do very often too," I said.

The woman looked up inquiringly. "Yes, I do the same thing. The Lord has taken me up in his chariot, and I rejoice to ride in it. But very often I carry a burden of care on my back that would ride just as well if I put it down. If the Lord is willing to carry me he is willing to carry my cares."—Mark Guy Pearse.

Chopin's Superstition.

Chopin, unlike most musical geniuses, was a late riser. He practiced so long at the piano, with his back unsupported, that his spine was permanently injured. He never composed except when seated at the piano, and he always had the lights turned out when he was improvising. A public audience unnerved him to such an extent that he could not properly interpret the music before him. Seated in the midst of a small select circle, he easily extemporized and improvised. He "talked" to his piano whenever he was melancholy. He thought more of his manuscript and his cat than he did of his intimate friends. Chopin had a superstitions dread of the figure seven and would not live in a house bearing that number or start upon a journey on that date.

Rings and Pledges.

There was an ancient Norse custom, according to which when an oath was imposed the person by whom it was pledged passed his hand through a silver ring, which was held sacred to the ceremony. In Iceland the bridegroom when plighting his troth used to pass his four fingers and thumb through a large ring and in this manner receive the hand of his bride. And even as lately as the end of the eighteenth century in Orkney a man and woman pledged their faith at the standing stones of Stennis by joining their hands through the perforated stone of Odin.

OF GIRL STUDENT AT PURDUE UNIVERSITY, THE BASIS FOR A DAMAGE SUIT.

Seven Young Women Charged With Cruel Mistreatment of Mabel Rogers, of Indiana.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 17.—Repeating her story that she had been pricked with pins, her face painted with red ink, partly disrobed and thrown into a tub of cold water, Miss Mabel Rogers, of Shoals, Ind., yesterday was subjected to an oral examination by attorneys for seven girl students of Purdue university, whom Miss Rogers is suing for damages. The plaintiff alleges that her health was so impaired by the hazing, to which she declares she was subjected last January, that she was unable to continue her work in the university this year.

Her statement today was in accordance with the Indiana statute which permits the defendant in a suit for damages to obtain a statement from the plaintiff before the case goes to trial.

The seven defendants are Ruth Cowan, Chicago; Mary Clark, Indianapolis; Mary Sheridan, Attica, Ind.; Esther Kistner, Terre Haute, Ind.; Agnes Phillips, Monroeville, Ind.; May Blue, Star City, Ind., and Helen Lee, Oxford, O.

For some time there has been considerable talk of a compromise in the case, but thus far, attorneys for both sides declare no arrangements have been made.

VISITORS

TO COUNTY INSTITUTIONS FILED ANNUAL REPORT WITH PROBATE JUDGE.

Infirmity, Jail and Children's Home Subject of Comment—Court News of a Day.

The board of Licking county visitors has made its annual report to Probate Judge Robbins Hunter. The members of the board are C. L. V. Holtz, chairman; O. C. Larason, secretary-treasurer; Harry D. Willison; Mrs. Ida M. Chase, Mrs. Fred Seymour and Mrs. Etta M. Kreig.

The report stated that the board had made a number of visits to the institutions under their care and had noted many improvements in sanitary conditions as well as economic, progressive and intelligent management.

At the county infirmity they found 72 inmates, 52 males and 20 females, one colored person being among the number. While all had plenty to eat and wear yet the expenses of maintaining the institution were $2,100 less than the previous year. The buildings were found to be in excellent condition.

Recommendations of the board previously made that the walls at the county jail be calcimined and that older and more hardened criminals be separated from the younger and less vicious have been executed.

Marked improvement in a general renovation of the entire building has been made at the city prison and everything was found to be in first class shape.

At the children's home forty-five inmates were found; the school which is maintained there was doing excellent work and 107 acres of land are under cultivation.

The board's report also touched on visits paid the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware and the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster. Industries from this county were well pleased with the treatment which they are receiving.

Mrs. Long prays for a divorce and all final relief.

POLICE WORKING ON CLUES TO GET MAKERS OF BOMBS

(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, Dec. 17.—The police today found what they believe to be the bomb factory where were made the missiles recently exploded at the Bronx county court house and the one left lighted in a court room of the criminal courts building which was extinguished before it could explode.

Twelve pounds of dynamite, fuse and detonating caps, identical with those used in the bombs, were found in a cellar on the upper East Side. One tenant of the house was arrested. He denied knowing about the explosives saying it was there when he moved in three weeks ago.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH SHOOTING AT A FOREIGNER

Mrs. Rice, formerly a resident of East Newark, who has more recently been residing in North Fourth street, near Church, was arrested at 10 o'clock, Wednesday night, on a charge of intoxication and discharging firearms within the city limits. The complaint made to the police declared that she had fired several shots at a foreigner whose name was not given. The charge of shooting was not pressed against the woman, though the weapon was found in her possession when she was placed under arrest by Officers Goff and Shively. The shooting is said to have taken place in West Newark. In police court she was fined $5 and costs and ordered committed to the county jail. Mayor Higbee promised the woman that if the investigation revealed that she did shoot at anyone another charge might be filed against her. She begged for her release, declaring that she would go to her home in Guernsey county if she was allowed to go. She has served a sentence in the Columbus workhouse, and has been arrested here several times.

The average ghost would be highly flattered if he could read the inscription on his own tombstone.

BIG LEAGUES TO START '15 SEASON APRIL FIFTEENTH

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Chicago, Dec. 17.—Play in the American and National Leagues next season will start on April 14. It was said by Ban B. Johnson, president of the former organization, before departing last night for French Lick, Ind., to attend the schedule meeting of the two leagues. The 1915 schedules, it was said, will call for 154 games, as in former years and the season will close on about the same date as last season in order to get the world's series started in good weather.

President Johnson said he expected to meet Col. John B. Ruppert, Jr., and Capt. T. L.
